Category	Present	Future	Velocity	Comments
Fastball *	70	70	97-100	High velocity guy, has a SNK & 4S. Has decent ride on it at times, more run than ride. Shape will sometimes flatten out. Best pitch vs. RHH
FB Movement	55	60		Can ride, more run than ride. SNK can flatten out but offers different look, good sink and run. Consistent shapes in future will benefit him.
Curve *				Doesn't throw one
Slider *	50	50	84-86	Shorter, tighter break. Rides through zone. Uses this more than SW.
Sweeper *	60	65	83-86	Larger horizontal movement, more depth. Better against LHH, plays well on fastball. More consistent command than slider
Change				Doesn't throw one
Command	50	55		Commands sweeper best. Fastball command is mediocre (misses arm-side v LHH, Glove side vs RHH)
Control	40	50		Relies on velo to get away with elevated pitches. In-zone strike thrower but lacks precision for intended location. Sweeper command is a strength.
Baseball Instincts	55	55		Quick and athletic off the mound. Calm and composed on the mound. Knows where he needs to throw the ball.
Aggressiveness	60	60		Goes after a lot of groundballs. Lives and dies with velo and will go right after guys.

Summation: McFarlane is a high velo reliever. Lives off his velo with concern of command and control of fastball. Shorter Slider has high usage against both sides and is his bridge pitch. Larger Sweeper plays well against LHH and he has good command and control of that pitch, rarely missing up. High Groundball and Strikeout rate vs both sides. Command and Control of fastball limit ceiling right now, project as high leverage set up man with improved command and control. PG: 55 FG: 60
